Lavanya Suresh is a Technology Manager at FordDirect, a fashion stylist, and the creator of Outfitiq — an AI-powered styling app built with Claude. She stands at the unique crossroads of enterprise technology, creative entrepreneurship, and AI innovation.

A featured speaker at TiECon Detroit and Ford automotive showcases, Lavanya brings AI out of the abstract and into lived, personal experience — making it as intuitive as choosing an outfit.

As a luxury event curator, brand collaborator, and growing content creator with 20K+ followers, Lavanya is defining what AI-powered style looks like for the next generation of women leaders.

Conversations that move the room forward.

01 AI + Fashion

The future of AI-powered styling: live demos with Outfitiq showing how machine intelligence transforms personal style, retail, and the creative economy — where tech meets taste.

02 Women in AI

Confidence, leadership, and innovation. The journey of women building technology and breaking into spaces where they were never meant to be — but belong entirely.

03 Personal Branding in the AI Era

How authenticity, aesthetics, and strategic content creation compound into a brand that opens doors at the highest level — from 0 to 20K+ and growing.

04 Entrepreneurship

Turning creativity into business: from a style idea to a live AI app. The discipline, clarity, and creative courage required to build something entirely your own.

05 The AI Experience

A live, hands-on AI styling experience where audiences discover AI as intuitive and personal — not intimidating. Perfect for keynotes and workshops.

She makes AI feel human. Watching her live-style a wardrobe with AI in real time is genuinely remarkable.
